Probers Told Union Tried to Take Over City

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide Senate investigation into alleged labor-industry racketeering opened today with testimony by two Portland, Ore., newspapermen that gangster-union combination "tried to take over our city government."

The newsmen were Wallace Turner and William Lambert, reporters for the Portland Oregonian.

Their series of stories on alleged connections between hoodlums and officials of the Teamsters Union in Portland won them the 1956 Heywood Brown award of the American Newspaper Guild.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of a special Senate committee established to make the inquiry into alleged gangster infiltration of labor organizations and industry, promised the committee revelations would be "stunning."

McClellan's statement, opening the hearings, expected to run a year or more, said committee investigators already have leads on alleged illegal or improper practices in some 29 cities.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said the initial phase of the hearings would touch on affairs in Spokane, Wash., as well as Portland.

Army, Guards Agree On a Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army and National Guard today agreed on a compromise to end their dispute over active duty training for new guard recruits and a House armed services subcommittee gave the plan its endorsement.

Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.) said the agreement will go to the full Armed Services Committee at its next meeting, probably next week. Approval there was virtually certain. That would end the row, since new legislation is not required.

Crittenden Must Release Ballots

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Federal Judge Thomas C. Trimble has ordered Crittenden County election officials to release records of last November's general election for examination by the U. S. district attorney, the federal Grand Jury and the FBI.

U. S. District Clerk Grady Miller today said Trimble signed the order late yesterday at the request of John Hampton, foreman of the Grand Jury which convened here yesterday.

Baking Champ Declares Youths Not Halfbaked

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — America's new cherry pie baking champion says it is unfair to the nation's youth to regard teen-agers as halfbaked.

She believes there are more problem children among adults. "Some grownups certainly don't behave as well as the average teen-ager," said Mary Ann Bartholomew firmly.

"The stories you hear about wild teen-agers concern only a few — a very few. Most of them will grow up to be fine citizens."

Mary Ann, blonde, poised and pretty, is a 17-year-old high school senior from Henric, N. Y., who won a $500 college scholarship and an electric range by winning the 25th National Cherry Pie Baking Contest over 130,000 other girl and boy contestants between the ages of 14 and 20.

She clinched the title at Chicago in a bake-off victory over 50 other finalists. Her other rewards: A

Wonder If It Was Really Worthwhile

Louisville officials wonder if towing his car away was worth it all.

He insists police tow it right back where they picked it up. "It was public seizure of private property located on private property," he contends.

The boy couldn't get the 1936 model started Friday morning so he ran it down a hill. The car still didn't start. He left it. Police towed it away.

John claimed the car was on private property. But Police Lt. David A. Mercer contended the car was parked on "semi-private property."

The officer refused to release John from the charges. John called Mayor Andrew Broadbent, who turned the matter of to city consultant Roy Owsley. He offered to get John's car returned if he could establish it was on private property when towed in and that he had the proper title and license.

Attorneys for Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, on whose land the car was parked, offered affidavits saying it was on private property.

Faubus Signs Segregation Bills Into Law

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Four bills which are designed to resist or delay racial integration were signed into law today by Gov. Orval Faubus.

Faubus would not comment when asked if he had made up his mind whom he would appoint to the commission, which will be composed of the governor, three top elected state officials, three members of the House and three others appointed by Faubus.

Three of the measures become effective immediately, but the bill which requires organizations to register and make periodic reports — obviously aimed at the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and other pro-integration groups — will not become effective for two months.

The emergency clause on the registration bill did not receive the necessary two-thirds vote in the Senate.

All four measures were cleared by the House without discussion and with little opposition. Only Rep. Ray S. Smith Jr., of Hot Springs voted against the registration and sovereignty measures and the other two were passed unanimously.

However, opposition crystallized in the Senate and a group of senators succeeded in securing a public hearing. The senators engaged in two lengthy debates and the bills passed by large majorities. The closest vote was 20-14 on the registration measure.

It drew fire from some senators who contended that it could be used against churches and civic groups. There also was considerable criticism of the sovereignty commission. Sen. C. E. Yingling of Searcy, leader of the opposition, called it a "glorified Gestapo."

The Senate, at the request of Faubus, attached two amendments to the sovereignty bill and one to the registration measure. However, the changes apparently did little to curb the commission's broad investigative powers.

The sovereignty bill states that the commission can investigate any person or group suspected of "dangerous invasion" of the state's rights.

The bills are the first pro-segregation measures which have passed the Legislature since the U. S. Supreme Court's 1954 decision on public school segregation. Less stringent proposals failed to pass in 1955.

Mollet Ready to Back Israel Demands

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP) — French Premier Guy Mollet is reported ready to back up Israel's demands for security guarantees as he begins top-level talks today with President Eisenhower on the French-American problems.

Mollet arrived yesterday and was greeted by Secretary of State Dulles and Vice President Nixon. Eisenhower remained in the White House.

The continuing Middle East crisis is reported topping the agenda of the issues to be reviewed as they seek to warm up the chilly relations that have marred French-American ties since the invasion of Egypt.

French diplomats said Mollet believes Israel is entitled to solid assurances against Egyptian attack and shipping blockades before withdrawing its forces from the disputed Gulf of Aqaba and Gaza areas. He opposes any United Nations move to penalize Israel with economic sanctions.

Four other key problems are understood to be set for personal attention of Eisenhower and Mollet. They are:

1. France's financial difficulties — French gold and dollar reserves are reported to have dropped almost alarmingly during the past year, making it likely the French will seek outside financial support.

2. Algeria — Mollet is reported anxious to win added American backing for his program of reforms which will ease Arab demands for independence of this area from French rule.

3. Atlantic Pact strategy — Both Eisenhower and Mollet want to review European defense plans. The big problem: When can France return some of the troops now in Algeria to meet its Atlantic Pact commitments.

4. European unity — Mollet can be expected to tell of concrete moves by Western European governments in recent weeks to organize a single trade market and set up an atomic energy pool to meet Europe's mounting demands for power.

State Department officials predicted no important agreements would result from the Eisenhower-Mollet sessions. The main aim, they said, is to promote better understanding.

Lions Hear Race Driver, Plant Manager

Hope Lions Club met yesterday for its weekly luncheon and business meeting and enjoyed a double-barrelled program. W. L. Tate was in charge of the program and presented R. W. Duval, local manager of Shanhouse and Sons, Inc., and production manager of the Hope and Magnolia plants. Mr. Duval made an interesting talk, gave statistics on production and stated definitely that Shanhouse would remain in Hope.

Jimmy Daywalt, four time driver in the famous Indianapolis 500, spoke to the club, giving his experiences on the big race and listed safety rules on the highway which we should all adhere to. Mr. Daywalt finished 6th in 1953, had to drop out of the 1954 race, finished 9th in 1955 and crashed in 1956 after leading for 339 miles.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The House today received a bill to direct the Public Service Commission to consider the fair field price of natural gas in determining rates allowed a gas utility.

Rep. Chadd L. Durrett of Union County, one of approximately a dozen sponsors, said the bill directly stemmed from yesterday's Supreme Court decision in which it was held that under present law the field price is not a factor in fixing rates. The court disallowed a 4-million-dollar annual increase which had been granted to Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.

The northern part of the brief bill reads:

"In determining and regulating the rates and charges of a natural gas utility company, the Public Service Commission shall allow as an operating expense of such natural gas utility company, for natural gas produced by it the fair value or reasonable market price, of such natural gas at the point at which the gas is delivered into the transmission system."

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company has warned its customers to expect to pay more for natural gas as a result of the Arkansas Supreme Court decision yesterday, setting aside a $4,300,000 rate increase granted the utility against its large industrial customers.

But an outspoken opponent of Ark-La, state Rep. Hardy W. Croxton of Benton County, said he considered the court ruling "one of the finest decisions I've ever read."

"This is just the beginning of the fight against rate increase," Croxton said.

The Supreme Court said that the fair field price factor was not applicable under Arkansas law in determining a utility's proper rates, and remanded the case back for further proceedings before the Public Service Commission, which granted the increase in 1955.

U. S., Poland to Talk Over Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States begins direct economic talks with Poland today to determine whether American dollars and surplus farm products can help ease Moscow's grip on the Polish economy.

The visiting five-man Polish government delegation is led by Henryk Kolcicki, director general of the Polish Finance Ministry. He will outline his government's problem to an American group headed by Thorsen V. Kalljarvi, acting deputy under secretary of state for economic affairs.

The American delegation was reported ready to listen cautiously but sympathetically to an expected formal Polish request for surplus American wheat, corn, oats and oil as well as credit to buy coal mining machinery.

An agreement meeting at least part of the Polish plea for aid appeared likely before the talks end in about three weeks.

Responsible authorities said the American attitude would be to emphasize as much as possible the desirability of restoring normal trade and commercial relations between the United States and Poland.

Any American aid package, they said, "would be modest" in keeping with the step-by-step policy to be pursued pending more information of Poland's economic conditions and obligations.

Assessment Ban Bill Still Before House

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. W.H. (Bill) Thompson of Poinsett County, sponsor of pending legislation that would kill attempts to get property assessed at 20 per cent of its true value, says he will withdraw the bill.

Thompson said he was pulling the measure back because it drew support from only two other persons last night at a hearing before the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

The committee voted the bill out with no recommendation. Several backers of the present law, Act 153 of 1935, spoke at the hearing. Act 153 requires that counties which have not brought assessments up to 18 per cent by 1958 would have their state turnback funds denied.

A measure to remove the sales tax from rice farming equipment got no recommendation from the committee. Oil and grease used in rice farming also would be exempted from the tax under the bill.

Canada Offers Israeli Troops Plan to Oust

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson today proposed a four-point plan for getting Israeli forces out of the Gaza Strip and the area around the Gulf of Aqaba.

He appealed to the 48-nation General Assembly to postpone any action on sanctions against Israel until after further efforts are made to find an agreed solution to the Israeli-Egyptian dispute.

Pearson spoke after the head of the 27-nation Asian-African group had urged the Assembly to end its delay and impose sanctions at once to punish Israel for failure to comply with U. N. decisions.

Pearson proposed the following four steps:

1. A formal pledge by Israel and Egypt to abide by all provisions of the 1949 armistice agreement, including a pledge to refrain from belligerent acts.

2. U. N. Emergency Force should be deployed along the armistice line to prevent raids across the border from either side.

3. It should be affirmed and agreed that there would be no interference with the innocent passage of vessels through the Straits of Tiran or the Gulf of Aqaba.

4. Use of U. N. Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip and the gradual replacement of the Israeli civil administration in the strip by a UN administration.

Leading off a new round of debate on the Israeli-Egyptian dispute, Jordanian Ambassador Abdel Monem Rifai told the Assembly the time for patience had passed and that action must be taken to get Israeli forces out of the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh area, on the Gulf of Aqaba.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. General Assembly prepared to resume its debate on sanctions against Israel today without further delay.

Many U. S. diplomats were convinced Israel's marathon talks with U. S. and U. N. officials had done little toward getting Israeli troops out of Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

Impatience grew as reports circulated that Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban had returned empty-handed from his latest trip to Jerusalem for new instructions.

A number of prominent delegates — both Western and Asian — have become annoyed at having to cool their heels while Eban held a series of consultations with Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

The Middle East debate was postponed twice again yesterday while Eban conferred in Washington and at U. N. headquarters.

Arab diplomats campaigned in the U. N. corridors for support to their sanctions resolution. It calls on all U. N. members to "deny all military, economic or financial assistance and facilities" to Israel until she quits the Egyptian coast of the Gulf of Aqaba and the Gaza Strip.

Middle East Plan Like Sick Relative

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senators are treating President Eisenhower's Middle East program like a sick relative. They drop in casually to look it over and discuss its condition when they have time for a visit.

Eisenhower submitted his program to Congress in person Jan. 5 with a great sense of urgency. But any luster of urgency has been worn off under the take-it-easy handling by the Senate.

Debate on the program began last Tuesday. Many senators expressed a desire to talk on it. But so few showed up, and so few stayed around to listen to those who did talk that the Democratic and Republican leaders had to bawl them out.

These two—Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, and William Knowland of California for the GOP—pleaded with their fellow senators to get on with the debate under threat of calling off debate and asking for a vote.

The speeches on the Middle East were interrupted by other speeches on such subjects as "A Visit to the Senate by Mr. and Mrs. Rock Hudson"; "Visit to the Senate by High School Students from Rhode Island"; "Welcome Extended to van"; and "Vision by a Group of State Finalists in Voice of Democracy Contest."

But there is an answer to any one who challenges the Senate's right to take its time on such an important problem as Eisenhower's program. Sen. Green (D-R), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, gave the answer on

Bill for Legal Gambling at Spa Proposed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The resort city of Hot Springs, Ark., will have a bill introduced in both houses of the Arkansas Legislature today to legalize casino gambling in the Spa City.

The Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the bill and a spokesman said "It has sufficient legislative backing" for enactment.

Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of the resort city in Central Arkansas said he would introduce the measure in the Senate and explained: "This bill is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and many business and professional men of Hot Springs as an answer to the tourist problem."

"I will do everything I can to get it passed. We have been working for three months to prepare the legislation and work up support for it among members of the Legislature. I think we have enough votes to pass it. The State of Nevada took in 60 million dollars in gambling taxes last year."

The Senator said it was a move to take illegal gambling out of politics and "bring millions of dollars in new state revenue."

Two warring factions have been unable to get together this year on the usual practice of permitting gambling houses to operate during the Oklahoma Park racing season. In seasons past, gambling has flourished openly during racing. Hot Springs has the only pari-mutuel betting on horses in Arkansas.

The bill prepared for introduction would limit legal gambling to Hot Springs but would make any Hot Springs the only city likely to vote for legal gambling, however.

Other features of the bill would include creation of a control board of five members to be appointed by the Governor for staggered terms. Only one casino per 5,000 population would be permitted. Both the city of Hot Springs and the state would take a "cut" of the gross receipts.

Crystal Cave in Bermuda has a natural lake which covers two acres and is 80 feet underground.

probably go with its committee's recommendations.

But the Eisenhower program got tangled up in other things from the start, all of which tended to slow down Senate action.

Instead of calling in congressional leaders to tell of the program before anyone else heard of it, and asked their help and advice, the administration "leaked" it to a newspaper.

Some senators resented this, considering it an attempt to pressure them by building up public opinion in favor of the program before they had a chance to discuss it.

Secretary of State Dulles further irritated Democrats by his vagueness in explaining the program to the committee. Further, the senators realize there is no great immediate danger of Russian aggression in the Middle East.

And so attention has been distracted from the program because of the more urgent hassle over getting Israel out of territory taken from Egypt.

At Shreveport, La., Ark-La President J. C. Hamilton said that loss of the expected additional revenue would force the company to "curtail if not wholly abandon" production of its own gas supplies.

Therefore, said Hamilton, Ark-La will have to buy more gas from independent producers "at far higher rates" than those from company-owned and company-produced supplies.

Crofton, who unsuccessfully sought a full-scale legislative investigation of utilities serving Arkansas, including Ark-La, said, "The utilities in opposition to the Supreme Court ruling on the 'fair field' method will now try to make the people believe that small domestic consumer rates will be increased to take up the slack."

"However," continued Crofton, "this will not be true if the PSC will establish a realistic rate base said this committee now has investigators in Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Chicago, Saratoga, Pa., Minneapolis and New York.

"We have received complaints that appear to have merit from more than 20 other cities," he said. "Investigators will be sent to those cities."

The goal, McClellan said, is to "learn not only which racketeers are present in union and employer associations but also how they came to be there—who sponsored these men and who protected them."

"We must seek to find a way to seal them off permanently from the labor-management movement. Their means of entrance must be blocked."

McClellan said the committee will "give attention to problems inherent in labor-management collusion, underworld infiltration of the labor movement, misuse of union and union welfare funds, suppression of civil rights and liberties of union members by their leaders, conflict of interest and the use of violence, shakedowns and extortions."

for the industrial users."

In another aspect of the case, the Supreme Court declared that Ark-La was entitled to only a 6.34 per cent return on its capital investment, rather than the unprecedented 8 per cent permitted under the PSC order.

The court left up to the commission what refunds, if any, are due from the higher rates which Ark-La has collected under bond since April 1952.

Under the fair field price theory, the PSC determined that the company should get credit for cost of gas it produced at the rate considered equitable if it had bought the gas from other producers.

Adoption of the fair field price method, the court said, "suggests a violation of the trustee relationship which we have said exists between the customers and stockholders of a utility company."

The PSC had no authority "in the absence of further legislation to discard the rate base method (under which earning is limited to a per cent of invested capital) in favor of the fair field price method in determining the net profits a public utility can earn in this state."

Technically, the decision reversed Pulaski Circuit Court which had refused to disturb the PSC order.

ing John had a right to park his car there. The boy's father is Dr. Allen W. Graves, dean of the seminary's School of Religious Education.

Armed with license and title, John returned to City Hall yesterday.

But Mercer still contended John's car was parked on "semi-private property," and made arrangements to get a city map and the superintendent of parks to go out and survey the scene.

It still was a stalemate last night.

But John isn't backing down.

"If they say I wasn't parked on private property, I'll take it to court," he said.

DOROTHY DIX Strange Gal's Mash Note Has Wife Plenty Worried

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and I have been married three years. We're in our early forties.

I work away from home all summer. When I came back last fall, he seemed very worried. A few days ago I came across a letter written to him by a woman. It was most affectionate, and it hurt so much that I had to say something about it. He said it was just a joke, and nothing whatever to worry about. Should I leave him, or stay?

Dear Mattie: After waiting so long to get married, I should think you would want to stick around and take care of your husband. He city you live in has plenty of job opportunities. This summer, stay home.

Whether there's anything to the letter or not, drop the subject, keep your husband company and make your own amiable disposition. Even if our marriage got off to a bad start, it can be redeemed if you work at it a bit. Don't be so quick to surrender.

Private Plane Crash Kills 4 in Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Four persons were killed yesterday when a private plane crashed near Gravelly in West Arkansas.

The fatalities raised to 18 the number of violent deaths in Arkansas during the week which ended at midnight Sunday. These included nine traffic deaths, a drowning, two fatal shootings, an accidental poisoning and a death resulting from a fire.

Joseph Chapman, 32, and his wife,

I should take advantage of it.

Dear Sally: Why the hesitation? Take the lessons and success to you!

Dear Dorothy Dix: Up to now I have had no reason to doubt my husband's love. I'm 23, he's 21, and we have two adorable children. My husband now claims he doesn't love me and never has. He has suggested that I leave and take the kiddies. I don't think this solution, but what is?

Dear C.C.: The responsibility of a family can loom very large in the eyes of a boy who has barely come of age. Chiefly, he needs constant encouragement; what he doesn't need is a feeling that he's trapped.

Even if things loom dismal at present, don't ever let him think you feel hopeless. You are the more mature of the two, so it's up to you to preserve your family. Get co-operation from relatives and friends; see a marriage counselor, if possible, and above all, cling to your religious practices and beliefs.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a woman of 43, and have a "boy friend," as they all say today. We started going together about 22 years ago. He doesn't want to hear about marriage or children, so we stopped discussing the subjects long ago. Don't you think it's time he made up his mind? Maybe I've been too easy. He gets everything he wants when he wants it, and spends very little on me.

Dear T.S.: Apparently the gentleman's objection was to legitimate children only. Know what? One of these fine days he's going to show up with a charming young wife, who somehow overcame his prejudice to marriage! Maybe he'll accomplish the miracle by refusing some things and demanding others - in their proper order. You should have done it long ago.

Killed in the plane crash were Haywood Irvin Smith, Jr., 40, and his wife, Mildred, and Dr. Burton all of Athens, Ala.

The 4-place Cessna in which they were traveling from Texas to Alabama fell about a mile east of Gravelly in Yel County, struck a tree to a bank of the Fourche La Pave River and careened into the water.

Smith, who owned the plane, was piloting it.

Wreckage of the aircraft was scattered for 200 yards along the river and searchers worked in waist-deep water to recover the bodies.

Sheriff Herman McCormick said identification of the victims was delayed for some time because the bodies were so badly mangled.

Several farmers in the Gravelly area saw the plane just before the crash. One said the plane flew upside down over his farm, righted itself and then went into a tailspin.

Two other farmers, Ferris Jones and Alfred Harvey, said they saw the plane go into a dive. They were the first to reach the crash scene.

The Smiths and the Chapmans had been visiting a son of Chapman at Plainview, Tex. They left Plainview yesterday.

The four bodies were taken to a funeral home at Danville. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

A 19-year-old youth burned to death Saturday night in the wreckage of a pickup truck which burst into flames after it hit a steel sign post on the outskirts of Jonesboro.

The victim was Alfred Chanchez of Brookland, Ark.

Police who had been pursuing the vehicle after it ran a red light before the crash.

Leonard A. Gillenwater, 64, a farmer of near Mariana, was fatally wounded by a shotgun blast Saturday.

He went outside to investigate a noise, tripped over a fence and the weapon discharged. The blast struck Gillenwater in the abdomen.

The first Olympic Games were held in Greece in 776 B. C.

Civil Rights Hearing Is Underway

WASHINGTON (AP) Officials of Arkansas and two other Southern states were among the witnesses scheduled today before the House judiciary subcommittee for hearings on pending civil rights bills.

The witnesses included Arkansas Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett and former Lt. Gov. J. L. (Bex) Shaver of Wyner presenting Gov. Orval Faubus—Sen. Talmadge (D-Ga.) and Gov. Price Daniel of Texas.

Rep. Celler (D-NY) chairman of both the subcommittee and the full committee and a strong advocate of civil rights legislation, yielded to insistent Southern demands for the current hearings.

I was the third extension of the time he originally allotted for considering the legislation. But he said testimony positively will close tomorrow and the full committee is expected to act next week.

Celler's strategy as soon as possible to lessen the effectiveness of an expected Southern filibuster in the Senate.

Daniel's views were to be given the subcommittee by Asst. Atty. Gen. Davis Grant of Texas.

Witnesses scheduled for tomorrow include Atty. Gen. J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia and Sen. Thurmond (D-SC), one-time candidate for president on the States Rights Democratic Dixiecrat ticket.

CHAPTER XXVI

Wild Jack smirked at Morgan, closing one eye in a wink. "You got a gun on you, Morgan?"

"Of course not," snapped Morgan.

"Only asking. I aim to keep the peace and I figure best way's to have the customers check their hardware when they come in."

He winked. "The folks made up some punch and it's got a touch of something strong in it."

Morgan took Cass's elbow and moved her into the big room. There was a table against the wall on which were deposited coats and hats. Cass dropped her cape on it and whispered to Morgan, "Golly, I'm scared all of a sudden. Maybe I don't know how to dance."

"Then we'll learn together," said et.

In a statement filed with the subcommittee, Rep. Herlong (D-Fla.) took issue with what he said was a statement that Florida officials had done nothing about a 1951 bombing in which a Negro leader was killed in Mims, Fla.

Herlong attached a letter in which Florida Atty. Gen. Richard W. Ervin said "I know that state and local authorities did zealously work on this case and that the FBI was invited in and did make full investigation."

Morgan.

Morgan kept his eyes on the top of Cass's taffy-colored hair as he concentrated on the steps, but then his eyes flickered away from his partner and he gave a slight start as his eyes met those of Helen Jagger less than six feet away.

She was dancing with Judge Drake.

She wore a wine-colored velvet evening gown that fitted her perfectly. She had done something to her hair and it was shimmering gold. She was the loveliest thing Morgan had ever looked upon.

His dance partner suddenly looked up at him. "Am I am I dancing all right?" she asked.

"Excellent," he murmured.

Then she almost collided with Helen Jagger, who had moved closer with her partner. Helen's hand dropped upon Cass's shoulder.

"Cass, my dear! I'm glad to see you again."

Cass almost jumped, then recognized Helen. "Miss Helen," she exclaimed. "We just got in from Texas and I—I"—she floundered, gulped and said, lamely—"I don't know how to dance!"

"You're doing marvelously," said Helen. Her eyes suddenly met Morgan's. "Good evening, Chad."

Morgan nodded. "You're looking well, Helen."

Helen laughed merrily and the two couples moved apart. "She's beautiful!" Cass whispered to Morgan. She suddenly looked up at him. "I—I know about you and Mr. Jagger having a fight. It broke your engagement to Miss Helen."

Morgan grimaced. "You've heard all this since you got in town this afternoon?"

"Oh, no! I knew it back home. I've known it for a long time. How you and Mr. Jagger had a real, dragdown fist fight and you licked him. There's always folks dropping in who've been up The Trail. We keep right well posted on what's going on up North."

Morgan looked toward the door and saw General Simcoe standing at Charles Foster's table. With him were Tim Alder, still wearing the long bearskin overcoat, and the Simcoe trail boss, Sam Acres.

At the table, the general was aying for himself, Alder and Acres. They were about to go on farther into the room when Wild Jack tapped the leathery-faced Sam Acres on the shoulder. "Your hardware, cowboy," he drawled.

Acres looked at him in astonishment. "Why should I give you my gun?"

"Because I'm telling you." A row of nails stuck in the wall and Wild Jack indicated that several guns already hung there.

Acres gave Wild Jack his revolver with ill grace. The marshal looked at Tom Alder.

"You carrying a gun under that coat?" Wild Jack asked.

"No," retorted Tom Alder, even as he gripped the butt of a revolver in his pocket of the bearskin coat.

"Mind showin' me?" continued the marshal.

Alder unbuttoned his coat, flicked it open to show that he was not wearing a gunbelt, then without even looking at Wild Jack again, followed General Simcoe and Sam Acres.

Alder's eyes searched the faces of the dancers. He found Cass Simcoe dancing with Chad Morgan. General Simcoe also had seen his daughter.

The music stopped and Cass, seeing her father only a short distance away, left Morgan and ran to him.

"I'm going to dance the next dance with you!" she cried.

Morgan came up, smiling. "I'll surrender her to you for the next turn, General Simcoe. But after that, I don't know. She's such a fine partner I may keep her the rest of the evening."

Cass flashed him a smile, then she saw Tom Alder. "Tom," she cried. "ain't you—aren't you going to take off that horrible overcoat?"

"What for?" asked Alder laconically. "I'm not going to dance."

Tom Alder was saved by the arrival of Joe Jagger, who had come across the room.

"General Simcoe," he cried, catching the general's hand and pumping it. "I heard you were in town and I've been hoping to see you." He turned, bowed to Cass. "Miss Simcoe, might I have the pleasure of this dance?"

"Golly," cried Cass. "I just promised the general and then—"

"No-no," General Simcoe said hastily. "I'm glad to get out of it. You dance with her, Mr. Jagger."

He exclaimed in relief as the music started and Jagger bowed to Cass. Cass shot a desperate look at Morgan, then allowed herself to be led away.

Fabric Promoter in AEA Reported

LITTLE ROCK (AP) State Sen. Lee Bearden of Leachville today said that many of his constituents had made inquiries about an Education Department employee "who is promoting man-made fabrics."

Bearden said that the employee is J. E. Farquhar and said he intended to question Education Commissioner Arch Ford about the matter.

"The cotton people are fighting for their life against the competition with man-made fabrics and they tell me this man is promoting man-made fabrics," Bearden said.

"They want to know if he has been brought in by some outside interest."

The State Plant Board's requested appropriation of $23,000 to fight a soybean pest found last week in Mississippi County was given a favorable recommendation by the Joint Budget Committee.

German Takes First
Fight in U. S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Winning heavyweight being a scarce commodity these days, you couldn't fault Germany's Will Besmanoff for asking today for a crack at contender Willie Pastrano.

Willie Pastrano made his U. S. debut and his first fight as a heavyweight a winning one last night when he thumped out a lopsided decision over Calvin Wilson of Philadelphia in a television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

The black-haired, 24-year-old Berliner, a light heavyweight contender has captured 12 straight wins. The first 11 were scored in the 175-pound class in Europe in 1956.

"I stay as a heavyweight now,"
said Willie who weighed 194 to Wilson's 190.

The sharp-shooting German did everything but floor the sluggish ring-rusty, inept Wilson in coping with the unanimous decision. The officials voted for Besmanoff this way: Referee Barney Felix, 9-1; Judge Charley Rosen, 7-3, and Judge Mike Davidowitch, 7-2-1.

Besmanoff's record now is 34-6-7.
Wilson, who was undefeated until he went into the Army in 1953, has a 12-3-4 record.

Palmer Moves to Baton Rouge Open

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Arnold
Palmer moved on to Baton Rouge today after beating par on a rough back nine twin $7,500 in top money in the Houston Open.

The 27-year-old Latrobe, Pa., professional picked up the winter tour's riches check yesterday with a final 69 for a 72-hole 279 that beat Doug Ford, former PGA champion, by one stroke.

Ford's $4,000 boosted his 1957 prize money to $12,585.83. Palmer's new championship jumped him from 11th place to runner-up with $9,762.50.

The undefeated Tar Heels (24-6)
and the end not in sight compiled 757 votes from the nation's sport writers and sportscasters to 637 for second-place Kansas. Just a week ago, they had a slim 50-point margin.

When Will (The Still) Chamberlain and company took a 56-54 beating from Oklahoma A&M last Thursday, that undoubtedly hurt the Jayhawks. However, they did hold down second place by a comfortable margin over Kentucky, which compiled 508 votes.

The voting included games of last Saturday and was tabulated on the usual basis of 10 points for first place, 9 for second and so on.

There were several minor changes in the lineup below the Big Three. Southern Methodist, which captured its third straight Southwest Conference championship, jumped from sixth to fourth.
UCLA climbed from eighth to sixth, while Seattle dropped from fourth to fifth and Bradley slipped from fifth to seventh. Iowa State was the only club to tumble right out of the top 10. The Cyclones tumbled to 10th as a result of losing to Kansas State Saturday night.

The top 10, with first-place votes
in parentheses:

1. North Carolina (61) 757

2. Kansas (6) 637

3. Kentucky 508

4. Southern Methodist 424

5. Seattle (6) 303

6. UCLA (1) 257

7. Bradley 153

8. Louisville (1) 141

9. Vanderbilt 13

10. Indiana 118

The second 10 in order:
West Virginia, Kansas State,
Wake Forest, St. Louis, Idaho
State, Oklahoma A&M, Oklahoma
City, Memphis State and Mississippi State.

Arizin Moves Into
Pro Scoring Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Thanks to a sure-fire jump shot—and a pair of injuries—Philadelphia's Paul Arizin figures to take over the individual scoring lead in the National Basketball Association this week en route to claiming the title again after a five-year dry spell.

A 31-point victory in three games last week upped Arizin's season total to 1,520 points, according to NBA statistics released today, for a 25.5 average.
He needed only for a 25.4 average to win the crown in 1955.

Last week's surge put Arizin 60 points behind all-time scorer of the St. Louis Hawks, who has seen limited action since breaking his
